

Timeline of the 2019-2020 COVID-19 pandemic in the United States. The timeline shows the progression from the first case in January to the end of the year. Key events include the first case in January, the first death in February, the first case in March, the first case in April, the first case in May, the first case in June, the first case in July, the first case in August, the first case in September, the first case in October, the first case in November, and the first case in December. The timeline also shows the number of cases and deaths over time.